I have created everything from advertisements and newsletters to corporate identities to complex Web sites and accompanying multimedia elements. I works in a variety of styles, each fitting the individual client's sensibilities while influencing the target audience in the intended way.

I own a design and graphics-related business. In which I provided a "one-stop shop" for clients' graphic design and advertising needs by combining my skills in print and Web design, photography, and printing.

In addition, I am a professional photographer. This informs my work as a designer, as it has trained me to see the finer points of light, shadow, and composition in both static and multimedia work. I shared his knowledge by teaching classes in digital photography and Photoshop at Garrett College in Maryland.

My designs and photography have been featured in such publications as Southern Living, Washingtonian magazine, The Baltimore Sun, Pittsburgh Magazine, Garrett County Vacation Guide, Blue Ridge Outdoors, Second Home Journal, and Maryland Life magazine.

I attended New Horizons Computer Learning Centers Baltimore, Maryland, where I completed coursework in Dreamweaver/UltraDev, FrontPage, Flash, Allaire Homesite, Photoshop, Paint Shop Pro, Javascript, Perl, HTML, DHTML, and Intermediate Networking. He also attended Howard Community College Columbia, Maryland.
